PARALEGAL

Jayson Dunlap has over 20 years of paralegal experience in the state and federal courts of Oregon and Washington. Prior to joining Hart Wagner in 2014, Jayson spent 5 years as a freelance paralegal working for several of Portland's most prominent firms and sole practice attorneys in a variety of legal fields, including complex litigation, personal injury, civil rights, legal malpractice, wind energy, and asbestos exposure. He also spent 8 years at a Portland firm specializing in complex corporate and commercial litigation, energy, public utilities, land use, civil rights, wage and hour, construction defect, and environmental law.

At Hart Wagner, Jayson brings his skills to bear on the firm's complex medical malpractice and long-term care defense cases. He manages the collection and analysis of medical records; conducts civil investigations; interviews and prepares lay and expert witnesses for depositions, mediation and trial; and drafts court pleadings and client reports.

A native of South Carolina, Jayson prefers the cooler climate of the Pacific Northwest and enjoys spending his time away from the office cooking, exercising, taking photographs, writing and performing music, and reading for pleasure.
